ABOUT

Two crafts. One heart.

Ramakrishna Raju Oruganti is an actor and yoga therapist whose work spans Telugu, Tamil and Kannada cinema, from Pelli Choopulu and Killing Veerappan to Dear Comrade, Gaddalakonda Ganesh and Dasara.

As an actor, he is drawn to the scenes that carry the weight of a story. He does not perform emotion; he lives it. His strongest instrument is his eyes: a single look can hold grief, longing, anger or hope before a word is spoken, which is why he is trusted with the moments that have to land.

Away from the camera, he is a yoga therapist with an M.Sc in Yoga Therapy, a PG Diploma in Yoga and teacher training, built on a Bachelor of Physical Education. The same awareness of breath and body that guides his students also grounds every role he plays.
